Ethical behaviour is important to WaterNSW. We view actual or suspected acts of fraud, corruption or other wrongdoing as serious matters.

4. How to report wrongdoing

WaterNSW strongly supports disclosures being made by people regarding unethical, dishonest or corrupt conduct. If you wish to report suspicions of wrongdoing by WaterNSW employees and/ or contractors, you can make a report by emailing disclosures@waternsw.com.au or calling 1300 662 077 and requesting to speak to the Manager Governance & Company Secretary.

- Any evidence of the event (e.g. documents, emails)
- Steps already taken to report the matter elsewhere or attempts made to resolve the concern.

All reports must be made with a genuine and reasonable belief regarding the conduct reported.

7. Information for employees

WaterNSW does have a Public Interest Disclosure Procedure which sets out WaterNSW's internal reporting system for staff to report wrongdoing without fear of reprisal or disadvantage.

If you are an employee or contractor of WaterNSW and you believe that WaterNSW has made a mistake or is not doing the right thing, please contact your immediate manager or, where this is not appropriate, the relevant Executive Manager, a nominated disclosures officer or the disclosures co-ordinator so that your report can be assessed as a Public Interest Disclosure.

You can find details of the nominated disclosures officer or the disclosures co-ordinator on the WaterNSW intranet as well as the Public Interest Disclosure Procedure.
