My name is Edna, I'm a long-finned eel, Lake Burragorang is my home. Day and night, night and day; I swim, I drift, I roam. With fleshy lips, my head is broad I'm shaped like a snake; One long fin will help me On the journey I'll undertake. For years I wait, and wait, and wait Waiting for the day That the lake will fill and fill, then spill It's time, I'm on my way! Backwards through the gates I'll go, Swimming downstream, to the sea In warmer waters, my babies are born But they don't stay with me. My tiny little elvers, What a journey they'll now take; Swimming upstream through the rivers,

Up the wall, back to the lake.
